Tycos Pocket Type Sphygmomanometer

Every Tycos Sphygmomanometer has adhered to an indisputable principle—that only a diaphragm-type instrument is competent for the determination of blood pressure. To faithfully record the correct systolic pressure, an indicator's accuracy must not be affected by the speed at which the armlet pressure is released, only a diaphragm instrument can guarantee this. To honestly give the true diastolic pressure, a sphygmomanometer must respond precisely to the actual movements of the arterial wall, again, only a diaphragm instrument can do this.

Portable, the entire apparatus in its handsome leather case is carried in coat pocket. Durable, its reliability in constant use has been proved by many thousands of instruments during the past twenty-two years. Accurate, its precision is assured by relation of the hand to the oval zero.

Write for new edition of the Tycos Bulletin No. 6, "Blood Pressure Selected Abstracts." A great aid to the doctor who wishes to keep abreast of blood pressure diagnosis and technique.

VACCINATION AGAINST DIPHTHERIA

For the five-year period 1920-25 in the Province of Ontario, one death in every six among children between 2 and 14 years old was due to diphtheria.

The majority of deaths from diphtheria occur during the months of the school year.

Diphtheria may be prevented by the use of Diphtheria Toxoid (Anatoxine-Ramon).

Diphtheria Toxoid as developed by Ramon of the Pasteur Institute, Paris, results from the incubation of diphtheria toxin with formaldehyde. It is a particularly stable, accurately standardized antigen which is absolutely non-toxic. It contains no serum and is therefore incapable of inducing sensitization to anti-toxins or sera.

In the past three years, diphtheria toxoid has been administered to approximately 500,000 individuals in the Dominion of Canada. Three subcutaneous doses, with an interval of three weeks between doses, have been found to give highly satisfactory results.

Diphtheria Toxoid (Anatoxine-Ramon) is available in 1-person, 6-person and 12-person packages. Information regarding its use will gladly be supplied upon request.
